1530 LAURO

Dining table of stone
Design Stephan Veit 2015

The dining table LAURO concentrates on the essentials: Its sculptural central base forms a perfect liaison with the round or oval tabletop. Craftsmanship and high-tech combined. For the table LAURO, a stable metal construction for the base has been created. The cover with organic curves is made by the 3D printer in-house. The surface will be lacquered upon the customer's request matching the tabletop.

The legendary stone park offers 150 different types of natural stone from all over the world. The customer selects his slab and determines the cutout from which a unique DRAENERT piece of furniture is made.
